

HITCHCOCK'S MOVE STIRS WASHINGTON: SUMMONED TO TAFT

POSTMASTER GENERAL CALLED TO WHITEHOUSE TO CONFER WITH TAFT TODAY.

SURPRISE EXPRESSED

Proposal That Government Take Over Telegraph Lines Causes Dis- cussion.—May Withhold Recommendation.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Postmaster General Hitchcock who, last night, gave out a statement saying he would recommend to congress the govern- ment ownership and operation of all telegraph lines, was summoned to the White House by President Taft shortly after eleven o'clock this morn- ing.

Taft's Attitude. Mr. Hitchcock, on his way to see the President, did not discuss the matter in any way. It is reported, however, that whatever feeling might have existed at the White House, was calmed mainly by the absence of in- formation there as to Mr. Hitchcock's intentions.

It was said that President Taft would make his attitude perfectly clear when he went to congress the Hughes Commission report on second class matter. This report is expected in the near future.

Washington Stirred. The announcement in favor of gov- ernment ownership and operation of the telegraph lines as an adjunct to the postoffice department stirred of- ficial Washington today as few ad- ministrative announcements have in recent years.

The postmaster general's statement was news to the White House and is said to have caused the greatest sur- prise there. This was evident when efforts were made late last night to recall the announcement. This effort, however, did not come from Mr. Hitchcock.

He was out of the city when the statement was released, and did not return until last evening. Then he went immediately to his apartment and would not be disturbed. Senators and representatives generally did not learn of the proposed recommendation until they read the papers this morning.

Cause of Discussion. When they reached the capital all were discussing the matter and many divergent views were expressed.

Most generally discussed of all the reports early today was the one to the effect that postmaster might be brought to bear upon Mr. Hitchcock not to make the recommendation. So far, the matter has not progress- ed beyond a declaration by the Post- master General that he would make such a recommendation to congress with a statement by him giving a reason for the proposed acquisition of the telegraph lines.

PREVENTABLE FIRES HAVE THE MAJORITY

Secretary of Insurance Legislative Committee Says Sixty Per- cent of Fires in Due to Carelessness.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 15.—Sixty per- cent of the total number of fires may be said to be due to carelessness. This conclusion is reached from personal of a report made by L. H. Webster, sec- retary of the Wisconsin legislative com- mittee for the investigation of fire in- surance conditions, on fire losses of 1910 in forty-four American cities whose annual reports he has studied. The appropriate annual loss in these cities, he says, is $10,000,000, or about one-sixth of the total annual fire loss of the United States and Canada.

Many Preventable. "Great as this loss is," says Mr. Webster, "it would not seem so deplorable if the greater part of it was not preventable. It is safe to say that 60 percent of the total number of fires in these cities as well as in the United States in general are due to carelessness. Thus, 10.63 percent are caused by the careless handling of rubbish; 6.30 percent by careless handling of matches; 10.86 percent from defective chimneys and furnaces; cigars, cigarettes and pipes are no small contrib- utes to this enormous loss, being 3.97 percent of the total. Defective fur- naces, stoves and stove pipes contrib- ute to causes.

Incendiaries as Cause. "Incendiaries, about which more has been said and written than any other cause of fire, contribute but 1.65 percent of the total. It may be said, however, that a considerable number of causes were reported as "supposed incendiaries" which have been added to the total of unknown causes. What little effort it would take on the part of the authorities in either more rigidly enforcing the laws already on the statute books or in pass- ing others to meet the needs of the present time."

Smokers Are Reckless. Mr. Webster comments severely on the recklessness of the average smoker which, he claims, the report shows, con- tributes nearly four percent of the total number of causes of fire. The "crim- inal match" is also scored, and down the whole line of causes, it is added, practically none can be found which could not be greatly reduced by a prop- er application of the available reme- dies.

A total of 42,311 fires figured in the report from which these results were obtained.

SOLDIERS CALLED TO SUPPRESS RIOTS OF MILL STRIKERS

Dig Mills Shut Down and Militia are Called Out to Guard Them.— Several People Injured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 15.—Dis- orders before the gates of the great textile mills of Lawrence became so frequent and menacing this morning that seven companies of infantry and a battery of field artillery were called from their armories in Lowell and Haverhill to assist the police in con- trolling the turbulent mobs of foreign operatives.

Dozen Are Injured. During the rioting more than a dozen persons were injured two by bul- lets. Up to noon 35 arrests have been made, and to further safeguard life and property, a call was sent to sev- eral cities for national guardsmen and police officers.

Situation in Hand. The guardsmen are armed with rifles. At noon the authorities had the situation well in hand. Among those arrested today was Joseph Ni- son a Polish strike leader who has figured in labor troubles in other places.

Mills Are Closed. Most of the structural mills in this city were forced to close their gates today because of the strike. A small number of operators appeared at the mills but there were not enough to begin operations.

Light Crashes. Light crashes between the police and the strikers occurred but nothing serious resulted. There was some disorder about 4:00 o'clock and four arrests were made. The crowd soon dispersed and the authorities feel con- fident that military aid will not be necessary.

EXPERT WILL STUDY EMPLOYES OF STATE

C. C. Sprague of Milwaukee Appointed to Study Personal Efficiency of Employees.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 15.—The state board of public affairs today an- nounced the appointment of C. C. Sprague of Milwaukee, an expert on per- sonal efficiency among employees of the state of Wisconsin. He will make a study of clerical matters as necessary, efficiency, records, etc. He will be- gin work Feb. 1. He is now supervisor of apprenticeship training courses and general assistant in efficiency work for the Allis-Chalmers company at Milwau- kee. He is a graduate of the Univer- sity of Toronto.

In its larger phases this work is ex- pected to result in a general reorgan- ization and betterment of the civil service and employment methods of the state. Of first importance is securing the best available men. Some corpora- tions have worked out methods of getting into touch with large num- bers of good "prospects" for all their lines of employment, and the board believes that such systems are worth studying with the possible application to state employment.

The work to be undertaken will be directed also to securing men prop- erly trained or experienced. Attention will be paid to understanding and ap- prenticeship work, practical training in technical work under expert heads, and cooperation for short training courses with outside agencies, such as the extension division. Experiments in this direction in connection with the Milwaukee bureau work are claim- ing to have given striking results. For the system proposed, employments would need to be classified with con- siderable range of salary in each class and promotion made fairly when earned. The board believes it is import- ant that inter-department lines of pro- motion to more important positions be established so that there is a possi- bility of stepping up for efficiency all along the line.

A half-pay or pension system, so that employees beyond the ages of the best, efficiency have something to do with the next few years, and at the same time look forward to, and at the same time not left a burden upon the depart- ments, would be an essential point in a complete efficiency system.

VIOLET BUEHLER IS FOUND IN NEW YORK SERVING AS NURSE

Chicago Helress, Missing for Weeks. Arrested by Police in New York City This Morning.—Seeing the World.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 15.—Violet Buehler, the missing Chicago helress was ar- rested at the corner of 1st and 70th streets this morning and taken to the police station. She had been working in the neighborhood of the police said taking care of a sick woman.

Admits Identity. Miss Buehler admitted her identity and told the police that she came to New York about a month ago with the idea of seeing the world. She de- clared that no man had anything to do with her leaving home.

She said that after her money began to get low she decided to get a pos- sition and answered a newspaper ad- vertisement for a nurse. She was em- ployed by Mrs. Anna Brett on East 70th street for more than three weeks.

Acting as Nurse. Miss Buehler who is said to be heir to an estate of several thousand dol- lars has been acting as nurse for the mother of Mrs. Brett as well as doing light domestic work. The Brett fam- ily were astonished to learn who their servant was.

Willing to go Home. The first news that the girl had been found came from Chicago and a de- tective was sent to locate the girl. Miss Buehler said she was willing to go back to Chicago and the police there wired for instructions.

Makes Statement. Later the girl made a longer state- ment to the police. She said she had told her foster mother she was going to visit an aunt, Mrs. P. Davidson, in Wisconsin, but instead had boarded a train for this city. Her idea in com- ing here was to earn her own way and see life.

Tells of Friend. Miss Buehler said she was unac- companied when she left Chicago, but immediately afterwards commenced to tell about a friend who she said was Jack Cline, a restaurant man whom she had known in Chicago and whom she met in this city soon after her arrival. Miss Buehler said Jack was a fine fellow and she hoped to marry him some day when they had saved money enough.

Mrs. Buehler to New York. Chicago, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Buehler said she would start for New York tomorrow to see Violet and declared she would surrender the girl to her real mother or take which ever course was for the best good for Violet.

"I will do anything to satisfy her. I want to know that she is well cared for. I will bring Violet back to Chi- cago if she wants to come here. I am overjoyed to think my little girl has been found."

ENGLAND STARTS HER LARGEST BATTLESHIP

Keel Laid for Twenty-Eighth Dread- nought Which Will Have Many Improvements.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Portsmouth, Eng., Jan. 15.—The keel plate of Great Britain's twenty- eighth ship of the dreadnought class was laid today in the Portsmouth dock yards. The new vessel is the first to be begun of the five honored ships provided for in the British naval program of 1911-1912. She will be completed in the course of the year 1914. When she has been added to the navy Great Britain will possess thirty-two dreadnoughts, half of which will be armed with 15.5 guns.

The vessel has not yet been named. She will be the largest battleship hitherto constructed in England, dis- placing the 25,000 and 26,000 tons. Although the dreadnought cruisers of the "Lion" class are much longer, the new vessel will be slightly heav- ier, besides throwing heavier shells than her immediate predecessors. Several improvements have been in- troduced by the constructors under arrangement of the internal subdivi- sions intended to minimize the danger of a torpedo attack while her un- torpeded battery will consist of 16.5 guns, whereas her predecessors have been armed with only four-inch guns for the purpose of encountering tor- pedo gunboats.

LITTLE BUSINESS FOR BOARD OF REVIEW

No One Had Appeared Before Them to Make Complaint on Assessments up to Noon Today.

The Board of Review which went into session at the City Hall this morning to hear complaints on the re- assessments of Janesville property by the State Tax Commission spent a very quiet day. Up to one o'clock this afternoon not a single tax payer had appeared before them to file a com- plaint. Later in the afternoon a few came in but not much was done.

As the assessors' books were open to inspection for an entire week and almost if not every tax payer in the city made use of the opportunity to learn his own assessment and have corrections made of the errors therein, it is not expected that the number of complaints made to the Board of Re- view will be very great.

Chairman of the Board Jesse Earle, and C. A. Sikes were on hand when the Board opened its session at nine o'clock this morning. P. S. Truesdell of Jefferson, the third member arrived late because of a delayed train. City Clerk R. M. Cummings and Court Stenographer Miss Isabella McClain are assisting the taking of testimony.

Attorney R. L. Wilcox of the law firm of Bundy and Wilcox, Eau Claire, arrived in the city this morning and will give an address at the Myers Opera House this evening at eight o'clock, which will formally launch the campaign for the establishment of the commission form of government in Janesville.

Eau Claire was the first city in the state to adopt the commission system and Mr. Wilcox is thoroughly ac- quainted with the operation of the new plan in that city. He is recog- nized as one of the best speakers in the state on the commission subject and is informed on the law as well as the practical application to the cities of Wisconsin, and other states. Mr. Wilcox is on a tour of the state in the interest of the new form of government for cities, and his address at Janesville tonight will be the first of four or five speeches in other cities. Tomorrow evening he will speak in Madison also for the purpose of starting the commission cam- paign, and later in the week will ad- dress the citizens of Sheboygan and Superior.

All questions pertaining to the com- mission government for cities in this state, as far as can be covered, will be explained in the address tonight. Coming from a speaker who is thor- oughly familiar with the working of the new law in his own city his argu- ments will have special weight, and it is an opportunity which no voter can afford to miss.

With the time for voting on the proposed change so near at hand, the date being a week from tomorrow, Jan. 23, it is important that the vot- ers should be informed in regard to the question upon which they shall vote. Other meetings will be held to discuss the matter during the week, but there will be no better opportu- nity to hear as distinguished and well- informed speaker as Mr. Wilcox.

The committee in charge of the commission campaign is planning to exert every effort for the purpose of securing as large a vote as possible at the special election. A large amount of literature on the proposed system may be distributed before the end of the week, and other plans are in process of formation.

Other meetings at which the com- mission plan will be discussed this week are: Social Union Club at Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening. Meeting of Superintendents' Asso- ciation at City Hall Wednesday even- ing.

DR. J. W. ST. JOHN IS CALLED BY DEATH

BELOVED CITIZEN AND PHYSICIAN-PASSED AWAY SAT. URDAY NIGHT.

LONG LIFE OF SERVICE

Had Been Spent in Janesville Where He Was Born in 1839—Was a Friend to All.

A shade of sadness swept over the city when it was known that Dr. J. W. St. John was dead, and in many homes genuine sorrow was expressed, because of the feeling of personal loss. A lifetime of three score and ten years, spent in a single community, is not given to many people to enjoy, yet this was Dr. St. John's privilege. He was present when the city was but a village. He developed with the city's growth, and his life was closely intertwined with its development through many long years of generous and intelligent service. There are some men who repel, and others who attract. Some men who pass up and down the streets, year after year, whom their neighbors only know as passing acquaintances, because they are so taciturn in disposition, and so unapproachable that they live a shut-in life.

Dr. St. John was the reverse of all this. Everybody knew him. He was approachable from every angle, and a word of kindly greeting always rewarded the intruder. In the homes of the lovely he was a patron saint and he blessed a multitude of this class of homes, without thought of reward, prompted by a big and generous heart, overflowing with sympathy.

An Irish woman called at his office a year ago. She was suffering from an incurable chronic disease and had been his patient for a dozen years. She said to him: "Doctor, I am clean discouraged with suffering all the time, and wish I could die."

He looked into her face with that peculiar smile, so full of humanity, and said in his drawl way: "Well, Maggie, I have thought sometimes that there are worse places than the sunny slope out on the hillside." Just a suggestion of the strength which sustained him through the long weeks of hopeless suffering.

Dr. St. John was a lover of nature as well as a lover of all mankind, and the man who knew him best, and who were the closest to him, were his associates in the woods and along the streams. He was a good companion and a good entertainer.

His outlook on the broad highway of life was hopeful and optimistic and his presence was like a ray of sunlight. He was one of God's noblest men, filling full his mission, and leaving a memory which will long be cherished in the field where he toiled and won.

Dr. James W. St. John was the son of Levi T. and Sarah St. John, and was born on what is known as the St. John farm, east of the city, Oct. 30, 1839. His father was one of the very first settlers in Rock county, reaching the banks of the Rock river, October 3, 1836, after a long and tedious journey from Hubbardston, Vermont.

At the time he arrived there were but six white women within as many miles of Janesville and none at Beloit. The first election in Rock county was held at the home of his brother five days after he came and as is to be expected the vote was very light.

Levi St. John boasted that he traded with every man in the county. He died in October, 1861 and his wife in September, 1872.

James was the youngest of nine children, all now deceased, except the oldest sister, Mrs. M. S. Hanson, of Otego, Kansas, who is over ninety years of age.

He worked on farms until he was eighteen years old and then went to Castleton, Vermont, where he attended a seminary for a year. He then returned to Janesville and enrolled in the newly established high school from which he subsequently graduated. In 1859 he took up the study of medicine.

Soon after the beginning of the War of the Rebellion Dr. St. John enlisted as a medical cadet and saw six months' service at Memphis, Tenn., and immediately vicinity. Later he entered the Chicago Medical College and graduated with the Class of 1865. He then returned to Janesville and opened up a practice which was almost continuous until failing health recently compelled him to relinquish it.

Dr. St. John was married in February, 1873, to Mary E. Gibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leora Gibbs of Worcester, Massachusetts. She is his sole survivor.

The deceased has been honored with public office in the city of his birth on several occasions. He was mayor during the years 1875 and 1876 and for two years was president of the Board of Education.

The funeral will be held tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon at two o'clock at the Congregational church. The body will lie in state at the church from 12:30 to 1:30 o'clock and those wishing to view the remains may do so at that time. Friends will kindly omit flowers.

BILL BAXTER'S TRIBUTE TO DOCTOR JIM.

It is particularly fitting at this time to recall the poem once written by Bill Baxter as a tribute to Dr. St. John. The verses appeared in the Janesville Recorder a number of years ago and so well do they express the delightful and lovable character of this respected citizen now passed away, that they are published below:

DOCTOR JIM.

If there's a man around this burg that don't know Doctor Jim, I jocks he don't know what he's missed, an' folks shud pity him. For Doc he's practiced 'round about fer over thirty year, an' there's many a feller peggin' 'round that wouldn't now be here.

If it hadn't been for callin' Doc ter set some broken limbs, An' pull him out, as good as new, when his chance wuz perty slim. Now Doc don't brag around ther town an' toll what he can do, But quietly goes and does his best ter pull a critter through.

He has a sort uv healing smile on his face, An' patients feel he brings along a few hours years uv grace. An' Doc he's done a sight uv good an' dextra'n ther poor, An' money a heart hez beat with joy when he pushed through ther door.

An' when they'd go to pay ther bill, why Doc he'd start to grin. "God bless yer heart, my child," he'd say, "It ain't worth mentionin'." Doc, he's sort uv careless like, cause his practice is so large, An' it ain't over half ther bills he ever thinks ter charge.

I've an inklin sort uv notion that more then half ther time He forgits jest on purpose, like he does sometimes with mine. An' many times I've known uv him when folks they couldn't pay, Ter say, "well, never mind, my child, perhaps ther'll be a day."

An' if ther don't it's jest as well, I guess I'll get alone. An' then he'll crack some funny joke, or hum some pleasant song. Now, Doc, he may look sort uv rough, but he's gentle as a lamb, Unless yer kinder git him riled, an' then he might say d—n.

An' if yer did impose on him, an' git ter tredlin' on his toes, Ther chances are (once on a time) yer'd git a bloody nose. Fer Doc was clever with his dukes, but that was years ago, An' a few uv us oldtimers here, ter our sorrow know it's so.

An' dogs—well gettin' down ter dogs, there's Doc's weakest pint, An' many a one hez dug fer fleas around Doc's backside. An' he warn't vertikler nuther exact, I've ter ther breed. Pointin', settin', bound or pus, they all uv 'em agreed.

Ther bill uv fare that Doc sot up wud an' all wud run ter jek his hand an' watch his smilin' face. I've seen him medlin' up a dog that had a broken leg, An' heard it whine an' look at Doc an' seem ter sort uv beg.

Fer Doc ter pull him through, an' cry most like a child, Then Doc ed talk an' comfort him, an' all him reconciled. Doc likes ter fish, an' loves ter hunt, an' is handy with a gun. An' it's many a deer that he has bagged an' dropped them on ther run.

An' shootin' turkeys at a match, Doc's aim is good an' true, An' most ther turkey Doc ed own when ther shootin' match wuz thru. Doc hasn't perty chick nor child, an' it allers seemed ter me. Ther Doc wuz jest ther kind uv man ter raise a family.

We need a few more uv his kind, we need sech men about. We can't afford ter loose sich men, nor let ther stock run out. I don't exactly know ther church ter which Doc does belong, But a man that does so much ther's good adn't time ter much ther's wrong.

An' no matter if he hez no creed, when ther angels hear him knock, Ther Lord 'll make 'em let him in. He needs sich men as Doc. Now Doc is perty large uv heart, an' it's in ther proper place, An' through his many years uv toil yer cannot find a trace.

Ther any mean or dirty act in which he tuk a part. Why, darn it all, ter sum it up, ther critter's most all heart. I see him, not in fancy's form, he's with us here today. I hear his voice, I see his form, I catch his manly way.

And in ther years of long ago, when first I knew of him, I found him then, I find him now, the same kind hearted Jim. BILL BAXTER.

The House of Purly,

UNITED BRETHREN TO HAVE REVIVAL WEEK

Rev. Chas. J. Roberts Delivered First of Series of Revival Sermons Last Evening.

Special evangelistic services began at the United Brethren church, Sunday evening, and will continue each evening during the week, except Saturday evening. The new pastor, the Rev. Chas. J. Roberts, will be his own evangelist, and has been very successful as a revivalist, having held revivals in several different parts of the United States.

Rev. Roberts used as his text Sunday evening, Psalm 85:6: "With thou not revive us again; that thy people may rejoice in thee." He spoke his part as follows:

"There are two things which should be accomplished in every revival meeting: First, the Christian people should be helped, encouraged, quickened, and brought nearer to what God would have them be. A revival to be a success, must begin in the church; there is not much use of trying to win the unconverted to God until Christian people get ready for consecrated service."

"The second thing to be accomplished in a revival is to bring to the saving knowledge of Christ those who know him not. I am sure there will be some things said during these meetings which will not suit all, but I hope you will be wise enough to accept that which does suit you."

"In these meetings I shall reserve the privilege of saying just what I think ought to be said and I hope all will be wide enough to choose what suits them."

"In the text which I have selected this evening, David's people had neglected and forgotten their God. And David loved his people and was very anxious that they should be revived in order that they should be able to do his work."

"I am sure an old-fashioned evangelist, Holy Ghost revival of religion is reason for rejoicing among any people in any period of the world's history. We often hear the question, 'How shall we reach the masses?' You let people get right with God and with their fellow men and let them be happy in a Saviour's love and we will have no trouble about reaching the masses."

"There is nothing that will win its way like true love."

"Formality is one of the most detestable things whether found in the home or in the church."

"I go into a home occasionally where they are so formal that I draw a sigh of relief when I get away. I would just as soon shake a pump handle as shake hands with some people. No, my friends, you will never win people to God and the church by formality. Let us look about us a little and see how the business men are doing in order to succeed. The Christmas rush is over. Are they simply waiting for next Christmas to come? Not by any manner of means. They're doing a little extra advertising, and getting ready to sell goods."

"Just so it the church of Christ is to accomplish her mission, she must stir herself."

"It is my conviction that it is more difficult to have a genuine revival now than it has been in some periods of the world's history. I wonder why this is true? The first reason I would mention is, 'Prayer meetings are unpopular.'"

"Many people seem to have the thought that the little boy has the hind long wanted to attend a circus; his mother, who was a Christian woman and a member of the church, had not allowed him to go. Finally, by his importunity, she allowed him to attend. When the little fellow came home he was all excited. 'Oh, mother, the circus was fine. I tell you mother, if you would just go to one circus you would never go to another prayer meeting as long as you live.'"

"Another reason why it is difficult to have a revival is, 'The family altars are gone down.' Some people just put on their religion with their Sunday clothes."

"Another reason why it is difficult to have a revival is, 'The people depend too much on the preacher.' We must organize today to do personal work. The politician does not depend on the great meeting to do the work. He sees the voters."

"In closing, a city had been besieged by the enemy for a number of months. Finally, they succeeded in making an opening in the wall of the city. The army was marched into the city through the hole in the wall. But when they were in the city they could not find the inhabitants of the city. They continued searching for them and finally found a trap door. They followed it and found that it led into a tunnel. They followed the tunnel until it finally came to the surface outside of the city walls. In time of peace they had prepared for war and had made a way of escape. In time of prosperity they prepared for adversity. So, in these revival meetings, we should use every means of grace so we will be prepared when the day of temptation comes."

"The second thing to be accomplished in a revival is to bring to the saving knowledge of Christ those who know him not. I am sure there will be some things said during these meetings which will not suit all, but I hope you will be wise enough to accept that which does suit you."

TAX PAYMENTS ARE COMING IN SLOWLY

One Hundred Fewer People Have Paid Than at Same Date a Year Ago—But Two Weeks Left.

Taxes continue to be paid very slowly at the office of City Treasurer James F. Adams. Up to date about a hundred less of the tax payers have paid their quota of the levy than at the same date last year. This means that in the two weeks which remain the office of the treasurer will be crowded so much harder. Most of the unpaid taxes are those payable on the larger city properties, though a number of these have been turned in. In their case the total amounts to a considerable sum and they seem disposed to make use of the money as long as possible.

The re-assessment has made much additional work for the city treasurer, as those who come to pay their taxes usually examined the new assessment at the same time and called upon the treasurer for a great deal of information.

is the name of a new Reflex lamp which we have just received. The burner is lined with sheet aluminum at all places where the Gas would come in contact with it.

The "647" is also fitted with a new arrangement for holding glassware, permitting it to be removed instantly for cleaning. The globe is held in place by a spring instead of three set screws. The liability of breakage has also been materially reduced by this new arrangement.

There is also a self lighting attachment which does away with the need for matches.

This lamp will be installed on a two weeks' free trial, and if proven satisfactory can be paid in three monthly installments of 80c each, along with the Gas Bill. A representative will explain further if you don't care to call at the salesroom.

ST. JOHN'S DEFEATED;
CARDINALS WIN SIX

Cardinals Take Six Out of Seven
When They Defeat Chicago Team
25 to 12.

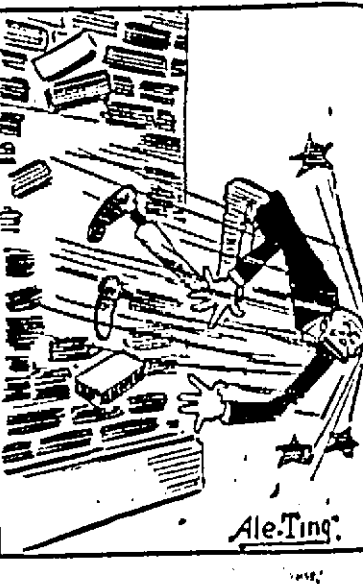

Victory again settled with the Cardinals Saturday at the link when they defeated the St. John's team of Chicago by a score of 25 to 12, despite the fact that the visitors had run away with them during the whole of the first half. While Ravenswood is considered to be the best team in Chicago the St. John's five is close behind them and is numbered among the few good teams in that city. Things begin to look rather blue for the Ravenswood bunch when the Cardinals wake up and really show what they can do in the way they did Saturday night. If they had defeated the Ravenswood five a few weeks ago they would have a perfect score to date and so they are planning to wreck a terrible revenge upon the spoilers of the record.

St. John's had things all their own way in the first half after the first few minutes. Jamesville got the ball on the toss and Langdon made the first basket and then there was a discouraging slump in the play and St. John's took advantage of it and proceeded to put in their best legs. Wise, at left guard, and Heckert were the stars of the visitors during this half, while Fleming, with two baskets and Langdon with one, made the points for the Cardinals.

Some one must have given the Cardinals an oxygen treatment between halves, for from here on they were totally changed both in spirit and method. Their team work and basket throwing made the spectators wonder what had happened to them and the opposing team wondered still more. Cunningham broke into the game with some fast floor work and with Green played circles around the Chicago boys. Jones and Cunningham were always just in the right place and knew what to do with the ball when the guards rushed it down the floor, while Green got into the game in his usual form. Muhlke, for the St. John's team, at right guard did much to prevent the total fall of his team. The teams lined up as follows:

CARDINALS
St. John's.....R. E. Goshel
Cunningham.....L. F. Heckert
Fleming.....C. Stephenson
Langdon.....R. G. Muhlke
Green.....L. G. Jones
2: Cunningham, 2: Wise, 2: Langdon,
1: Heckert, 1: Free throw—Muhlke
3: Cunningham, 2: Jones, 2: Goshel, 1:
Referee—Sennet.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, Jan. 15.—Saturday afternoon when Peter Meredith, a farmer residing east of this city, was returning home, his horse became frightened when crossing the rail road track, and dropped dead upon the crossing. The horse was valued at about one hundred and fifty dollars, and besides was a very good work animal.

HORSES WILL RACE ON ICE WEDNESDAY

Fast Races Planned for Wednesday On Gas Pond—Three Out Yesterday Trying Out.

All the horse men in the city are taking a great deal of interest in the races which are to be pulled off on the gas pond Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock, and are looking forward to some exciting contests between the fast horses of the vicinity. Eight or nine spectators will probably be out for the events if the weather is good and a large crowd will probably turn out to witness the results. There will be an official starter at that afternoon and all of the local animals which have been getting in condition for some time will meet

Mrs. R. Chilton is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Oliver Barnum, of Belmont.

Mrs. D. Q. Grubbs is quite ill with a severe attack of tonsillitis. The Young People's Reading Circle of the Congregational church meets Tuesday evening at the home of Frances Seales.

Beginning Wednesday evening, the prayer meetings of the Congregational church will be in charge of members of the congregation. The leader for January 17, is H. A. Blakeley, and the subject, "Our Church Covenant." All members of the congregation and friends are cordially invited to be present. From time to time there will be speakers from out of town.

For the first time this winter since the track has been closed.

Three horses were out yesterday afternoon and most of the owners of fast horses were present to see the form exhibited by those which first appeared. Sheridan, Schmidey and Shoemaker had horses on the ice and though it was not in the best of condition enjoyed some fast heats. The ice was scraped once but the snow had drifted onto it and the footing was rather loose for the horses. The races were first planned for this afternoon, but the cold weather interfered again and they were postponed until Wednesday. It is not known yet just what races will be run, or how they will be run, but if the expected crowd turns out there will be some lively trotting. In the opinion of the owners, Sheridan, Jones, Lloyd, Schmidey, Shoemaker and Mayor Nichols all are planning on taking some of the races.

Pretty Likely.

When a woman enters a prize contest she is likely to feel pretty sure that the winner had a pull with the judges.

Good Sign of the Times.

The determination of the masses of the people to better their conditions is one of the most healthy signs the country can have.

THE THEATERS

"Louisiana Lou," which will be played by Harry Askin's special company for the first time here on Friday evening, January 13, in the Myers theatre, is founded on reason, inasmuch as there is a play beneath the fabric of fun and music that has made it the success of the season in Chicago, where it has been running since Sept. 3, 1911. A same story is told by "Louisiana Lou"; and every laugh and every song row legitimately out of this story.

The character of the title is a foundling. She was picked up in the street one night by Jacob Lidoftski, a kindly Hebrew, in New Orleans, where he and his immigrant pal, Frederic Kornkarmey, were seeking to make a living. Lidoftski, broke and virtually homeless save for the room he occupied in the Kornkarmey's poor but happy little home, took the child to the care of Mrs. Kornkarmey, who gave to the foundling the same tender care as to her own son, Jack. Luck changed for both Lidoftski and Kornkarmey from the night the child was found; and at the opening of the play we find Louisiana Lou—the name given to her by Lidoftski because of the initials "L. L." in a pocket about her baby neck—be-throthed to Jack, but in love with Jack's pal, Nixon Holme, and Jack, facing an "arranged" marriage with Lou, in love with Della Fair, the pretty sister of the second Mrs. Kornkarmey the first having died before the opening of the story.

It is Mardi-Gras in New Orleans when Lou returns from her Paris schooling; and the play consists of the resources employed by all four lovers to upset the plans of Lidoftski and Kornkarmey to unite the two families

In marriage. One of the touching and beautiful scenes of the play is where Lidoftski, in fear, tells the foundling now a beautiful girl of seventeen years, that she is not his own child.

SOMETHING NEW.

Governor Osborne of Michigan is being severely criticised for recommending, through a magazine article, that the church and innocent amusements combine in the interests of church attendance. His plan is for the churches and Sunday schools to issue tickets to all attendees Sunday morning, these tickets to be good for some place of amusement Sunday evening. His article will appear in the February number of the Liberty Magazine, published at Washington. A synopsis has already been sent out to the press, which reads as follows: "The question of Sunday amusements has come close to Lansing just now. I feel that many of those who favor rigid Sabbath observance fail to realize how hungry for recreation, change, and amusement those people who work all week at confining occupations. It is true that there is no rest nor happiness equal to that obtained from being in perfect tune with the infinite. That tunelessness is not easy to accomplish by all who are tired and hungry. Why could not reciprocal arrangement be entered into between church authorities and public-amusement caterers? In this connection I may state that all Sunday amusements, if any are permitted, should be either conducted by the municipality or carefully supervised by it. Then suppose that no one could attend a Sunday-amusement place without a ticket stamped at the church or Sunday school at the close of services, certifying that the bearer had attended divine service of some kind. All of this premises only wholesome Sunday amusements."

"I have a real sympathy for those who, because of the driving necessities of life, come to look forward to Sunday as a day of rest and pleasure. They should attend at least one church service of some kind. This might be one way to increase church attendance and elevate Sunday amusements."

Mr. Harcourt, the associated editor of the magazine, has replied to Governor Osborne, suggesting that the carrying out of his plan would result in the union of church and state. That it was not now, but had been tried time and again in the early centuries, and failed. Laws were enacted in our colonial history which attempted to compel church attendance.

"A civil officer known as the 'tithing-man' was appointed by the government to see that no young people walked abroad on the eve of the Sabbath. He also marked and reported all those who 'lived at home,' and others who 'prophane'ly behaved,' flung out without doors at meeting time on the Lord's Day, all the sons of Babel strutting about, sitting on fences, and otherwise desecrating the day." These offenders were first admonished by the 'tithing-man,' then 'set in stocks,' then 'tied before the court.' They were also 'confined in the cage on the meeting-house green, with the Lord's day sleepers.' The tithing-man could arrest 'any' who walked or rode too fast a pace to and from meeting, and he could arrest any who 'walked or rode unnecessarily on the Sabbath.' 'Great and small alike were under his control.'

"Imagine President Taft, for instance, being arrested by a tithing-man some Sunday morning for 'riding' to church! Yet that very thing happened to President George Washington, in the year 1789, as will be seen from the following notice published in the Columbian Centinel, of December of that year. The article is entitled 'The President and the Tithing-man,' and reads as follows:

"The President (George Washington), on his return to New York from his late tour through Connecticut, having missed his way on Saturday, was obliged to ride a few miles on Sunday morning in order to gain the town at which he had proposed to have attended divine service. Before he arrived, however, he was met by a tithing-man, who commanding him to stop, demanded the occasion of his riding; and it was not until the President had informed him of every circumstance and promised to go no farther than the town intended that the tithing-man would permit him to proceed on his journey."

Governor Osborne seems to have been a little previous in his recommendations.

INTELLIGENT FARMING.
The National Soil Fertility League, of which President Taft is a member, will introduce a bill in congress next week, providing for national aid in developing agriculture along intelligent and scientific lines. The bill calls for an appropriation to be used by the agricultural colleges in connection with state and county co-operation, and also provides for an agriculturalist for each of the 3,000 counties, who shall devote his time to practical demonstrations on the farms in his territory. President Taft thus endorsed the plan in his Kansas City speech last September.

"The welfare of the people is so dependent on improved agricultural conditions that it seems wise to use the Welfare Chano of the Constitution to authorize the expenditure of money for improvement in agricultural education, and leave to the states and private enterprise general and other vocational education. The attitude of the Government in all this matter must be merely advisory."

"It is now proposed to organize a force of three thousand men, one to every county in the United States, who will conduct experiments within the county for the edification and education of the present farmers and of the young embryo farmers, who are being educated. It is proposed that these men shall be partly paid by the county, partly by the state and partly by the federal government, and it is hoped that the actual demonstration on the farms in the county—not agricultural stations or schools somewhere in the state—but in the county itself, shall bring home to the farmers what it is possible to do with the very soil that they themselves are engaged in. I understand this to be the object of an association organized for the improvement in agriculture in this country and I do not think we could have a more practical method than this.

"It is ordinarily not wise to unite administration between the county and state and federal governments, but this subject is one so all-compelling, it is one in which all people are so much interested, that co-operation seems easy and the expenditure of money for a good purpose so free from difficulty, that we may properly welcome the plan and try it."

In the death of Dr. St. John the city meets with a distinctive loss, and many homes, where his cheery presence brought comfort and good cheer, will mourn the loss of a personal friend. The doctor lived to a purpose, and it was no unselfish that it won the love of all who knew him. The city is better because it enjoyed his companionship.

The experience which beet sugar factories are having, just now, on account of the loss on beets, due to weather and climatic conditions, is discouraging to say the least. What influence it may have on the industry in the future is problematic, but the chances are that we may not have another such a season in a decade.

Don't fail to attend the opera house meeting tonight. The question of the Commission plan of government will be freely discussed and every voter owes it to himself to become thoroughly posted, so that he may act intelligently.

EXPURGE MOMENT

A REVERSIBLE OPINION:
Hod Dinks has said down to the store.
And he has said it over and over,
In his profound and all-wise way—
He said it just the other day.
And he said it with a lot of steam,
It beat his most favorite theme—
He don't want women for to vote,
'Twould be a Dickens of a note
If woman over should get hold
And let the vittles all get cold
By laughin' round the polls for hours
An' tryin' to upset the powers
That be in this here mighty land
He wants us all to understand
He's dead as'n' it from the start,
No ocel suffrage for his part.
His better half will never mix
Up in no gold-min politics;
He'll see to that for he's the boss,
He says the subject makes him cross.
Them is his sentiments by gum,
The women folks should stay at hum.
That's what he said down to the store;
He'd said it many times before
His style of argument is such
We think he don't protest too much
For some of us who have been 'round
Within an easy sight and sound
Of Hod Dink's house when trouble's rife

Know pretty well about his wife,
Hod lets off all his steam to us,
But 'round home, he don't make no fuss.
You'd think, to hear him talk to her,
That he was simply livin' for her.
To see her vote for president
And that he then could do content.
He's for it and he's for it strong;
He's told her that much right along.
He's mighty liberal with the salve
And tells her that she ought to have
The rights men have had in the past.
You see, Hod really doesn't dust
Say nothin' that don't please her whim.

UNION SERVICE ENDS THE WEEK OF PRAYER

PASTORS OF FOUR CHURCHES TOOK PART IN MEETING HELD LAST EVENING.

TRIUMPH OF KINGDOM

Victory of Christ and Church Must Be Preceded By Triumph of Unity, Service and Generosity.

A union service of the Congregational, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian congregations held at the Presbyterian church last evening closed a successful series of such services which have been held throughout the week of prayer. The pastors of all four churches took part and the pews were well filled in spite of the inclement weather.

"The Triumph of the Kingdom" was the general subject of the week of prayer and three of the essential elements of that triumph—the essential of unity, of service, and of generosity—were the topics of the brief addresses given last evening.

"The Protestant church is shooting little firecrackers instead of twelve-inch guns in the warfare on unrighteousness because of its dissensions and divisions," said Rev. Dr. Denton, who spoke on the subject, "The Triumph of Union."

"A church divided against itself cannot stand. The old scriptural precept quoted with such great effect by Abraham Lincoln when the nation's existence was threatened applies with equal force and truth to the church today. It need not be taken on the scriptural authority alone; it is the voice of wisdom and common sense. Intelligible alike to Christian and worldling. We today need to speak forcefully in support of certain principles and fundamentals on which we agree, and let no divisions on the score of creed, ritual and self-interest prevent us from rallying around the feet of Christ. That we should be willing to yield and suffer loss for His sake is His command."

"I would not confine the effort for union to the Evangelical churches, I am willing to worship with the Episcopalian, the Lutheran the Roman Catholic and the Unitarian."

"If the Kingdom of God is to triumph there must be loyalty and integrity in the local church and in the denomination. There are any number of instances of churches being wrecked by the selfishness and bigotry of their members. Our union in these services demonstrates our want of selfish interest. We must lay aside all ordinary and accidental interests and work and pray for the unity of the Christian church."

"The Triumph of Service" was the topic of the Rev. J. C. Hazen. He said that the life of Jesus was primarily a life of service.

"His life was at the time one of great disappointment to the people to whom he ministered. They looked for a mighty powerful king who would make them the most powerful and prosperous nation of the earth, and Jerusalem its foremost capital. They expected a Messiah who would emphasize old doctrines, teachings and interpretations, that he would be a powerful and victorious exponent of this or that dogma.

"His mission was a far different one. He laid no emphasis upon these things. The purpose of His coming was set forth in His reply to the committee which waited upon him at the request of John the Baptist to learn whether or not He was the Messiah. 'Tell them,' He said, 'that the hungry are fed, the sick are cared for, and the poor have the gospel preached unto them.'

"Let us glance at the results of that teaching. Note what was done for the poor when dogma and ritual teaching were prized more than service and then the feeding of two hundred thousand needy people in Chicago last week. If, in our own community I were to choose between raising a hundred dollars for the relief of the poor and the finding of ten needy families to which I gave aid, I would rather select the contribution, I would find it easier.

"The poor have the gospel preached unto them. Thousands upon thousands of communists now hear it freely and without cost. In the last year the Protestant church gave twenty-five million dollars to carry the gospel to foreign lands."

"The Triumph of Generosity" was the topic of the Rev. T. D. Williams, who spoke on the topic, "The Triumph of Generosity."

"There is a very wide relation between evil and character," said the Rev. T. D. Williams, who spoke on the topic, "The Triumph of Generosity."

"There is also an inseparable connection between giving and receiving. God desires that we recognize and get upon these truths. If we do not have the means to give, He can find a way to make His Kingdom come; but if we can give aid with the gifts He has given us, it is our privilege to do so. The wheels of the chariots of God are clogged because of want of means to carry on His work although this country has had decades of unexampled prosperity. I believe that God's hand has been in the political and economic changes of the last few years and that they will lead to an unparalleled display of generosity for the promotion of the Kingdom of God."

The Rev. Laughlin closed the series of talks with a few remarks on the commendable spirit shown in the religious of Janesville churches, the promise of usefulness and strength in perturbed, and the possibilities of united action in a common cause.

For Mending China.
For mending china the white of an egg and pulverized unslaked lime is a strong cement. Dip a small brush in the egg white, slightly beat and brush the edges to be joined. Then quickly dust one edge with a little of the lime and place the edges together accurately; hold in place firmly for a couple of minutes, then set aside to dry. This must be done quickly.

Five (5) Times As Many Calls Sent In Over Rock County Telephones Daily As Over the Bell Wires

For some time we've had certain representative business houses check up the number of calls which came to their places of business over the two telephone systems. In checking up it was found that the calls coming in over the Rock County lines exceeded the calls over the other system by five times. To every person who is thinking of having a telephone installed that statement above bristles with meaning, that if you want to reach people or have people reach you by telephone, it is needful that you install the Rock County Phone. You can have one in your residence for $1.00 per month.

SNOW ON RAILS CAUSES STREET CARS MUCH TROUBLE.

Makes Wheels Slip and Interferes With Flow of Current Decreasing Power of Motors.

Snow on the street car rails has been giving the cars considerable trouble during the last week and especially since the fresh fall of snow yesterday. The snow not only makes the rails slippery but being a poor conductor of the current, interferes with its flow through the motors and decreases their power. The result between wheels and rails thus produced is at times as spectacular as a display of fireworks, flames blindingly white blocks.

The chief centers of trouble seem to be the bridge and the Milwaukee street hill. The light repair car made several attempts to cross the bridge early this morning before it succeeded backing up as far as Franklin street to "push it." Men were placed at work this morning to shovel the snow farther back from the rails so that it would not drift over them.

JOHN MCGINNITY FINDS LOST DIAMOND RING

John McGinnity early Sunday morning found the diamond lost by A. H. Eldredge, a Chicago traveling salesman, in front of the Grand hotel Sunday night.

While scuffling with an acquaintance he slipped and in attempting to regain his balance jerked his arm so violently that the ring flew off his finger and disappeared. As snow was falling at the time it was not possible to find the ring until morning.

HAD PLENTY OF MONEY BUT IT WAS WELL HIDDEN.

Mike Segar, fined for Drunkenness This Morning Had Roll of Greenbacks Secreted Underneath Clothing.

Mike Segar, a cousin of the man with the same surname who was sent to jail on a charge of drunkenness last week was arrested last night, and pleaded guilty to the same charge before Judge Fildell this morning. He was fined five dollars. The change which was found on his person was not enough to pay the fine but Segar, after a search underneath his clothing brought forth a knotted handkerchief in which he had a considerable amount of money in greenbacks.

STILL NO SHIPMENT OF VEGETABLES IN

Potatoes Almost Gone From Market And Are up to a Dollar Today.

Still the shippers are waiting for the cold weather to let up so that they can send their vegetables out of Chicago where many of them are all ready to be taken. In the meantime the local markets are running short of many of the vegetables which come from that city. Owing to the fact that potatoes stored in the cellars of some of the grocers froze during the last week and that no more can be shipped during the extreme cold weather they are bringing a dollar a bushel and have gone up to eighty-five cents a bushel wholesale. The long drawn out cold spell is having a bad effect on all part of the country but it is not yet known just how much the Janesville markets will be hurt.

Marriage a Failure?
The statisticians inform us that there is an increasing tendency toward divorce, but the very worst divorce tables show that 12 couples out of every 100 get divorced within 20 years of the marriage day. But only look at this statement from another angle. There are 88 couples who do not get divorced. And so, is marriage a failure? Hardly!

Pride.
"Say, Henry, I see that some fellow in congress is going to ask the government to give work to everybody." "Say, what do you think of that? Well, you can tell the fellow if you see him that I've got a little too much pride to depend for my living on the bounty of anybody's government!"

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

Danger for the Small Boy in the Indian Suit.

Did the gift-giving season just past bring an Indian suit to the small boy of the household? If so, this letter from a correspondent may be a word in time to prevent a most terrible disaster.

"I have been wondering," writes my kind correspondent, "if you might not reach a great many mothers in a little talk upon not allowing their small boys to wear Indian suits around bonfires.

"Two weeks ago, a friend, a kindergarten teacher, was distressed by the burning to death of one of her bright little pupils. He was playing Indian, around a bonfire right here in the city, when the fringe on the suit caught fire, and he was enveloped with flames before help could reach him.

"My own boy, when about five years old, caught fire in the same way; but he had presence of mind enough to rub sand on the burning fringe, and thus put out the fire.

"I wish all mothers could instill the danger of these suits near bonfires into their children."

It is probable that some mothers may never have thought of this danger, and very sincere thanks are due the writer of this letter for her timely warning.

These suits are very popular, and the youngsters, when dressed in them and playing Indian, have a grand good time. It may not be necessary to taboo them altogether. But it certainly will be the part of wisdom to point out to the children the need of caution, when playing around a bonfire. If the child fully understands, and his co-operation is enlisted, he probably will be careful. He should be told, too, what to do in case the suit does catch fire. And it might not be amiss for a mother not only to tell her own little boy what to do, but to instruct his playmates also. So that in case of an accident, they could all render assistance.

Many toys and games for children have objectionable or dangerous features not always thought of when purchasing them. Parents may note these drawbacks, but friends or fond relatives, if they are not used to children, often do not give such matters a thought. But when purchasing a game or toy for a child, it would be well to study not only the fun to be found in it, but also the question of any possible harm. Sometimes, there are dyes and colors that are injurious. Again, there may be an effect upon a child's nerves that is not good. A toy that will catch the fancy of a grown-up may frighten a child, as was shown recently in the case of a little girl. A man in the toy department of a large store was illustrating a funny face, that could be made by using a handkerchief, the hand, and a few little things he was willing, that answered for eyes, nose and mouth. In the demonstrator's left hand, the whole thing seemed very funny, and a passer-by bought one for his little girl. But the child went off into shrieks of terror, when he made the face for her that night at home. It was too uncanny for childish nerves.

No some of us may need to remember when choosing toys, that there is more than the play-side to them.

Barbara Boyd.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE author-man was reading aloud to us the other night. "There's an awfully clever parody on the 23rd Psalm somewhere in this magazine, that I want you people to hear," he said, as he consulted the table of contents.

"Excuse me," said the man-who-thinks, with a vigorous accent on the second word. "Anything but a parody for me, please. But don't let me keep the rest of the family from hearing it if they like. I'll take a stroll out in the kitchen for a glass of water."

"Now what is the matter with you," queried the author-man, "Isn't this a new wrinkle?"

"No, it is not," said the man-who-thinks, "I've had too many beautiful things spoiled by parodies already, and I made up my mind some time ago that I'd never listen to another if I could help it."

Can you ditto the author-man's experience? I certainly can, and I should think most people could.

A clever parody is a mighty clever piece of work. Unfortunately, its very cleverness is apt to make it unforgetable. If we could read, laugh, and forget, that would be all right, but how often can we do that?

We hear the parody once or twice, and from then on we can never hear the real thing without having its beauty or its sacredness stained or entirely obliterated, by the quick flashing recollection of the clever but silly imitation.

Several beautiful hymns have been spoiled for me in this way. To my dying day, I don't believe I shall be able to hear the splendid strains of the Lohengrin wedding march without shuddering over in my mind, "Here comes the bride, etc." For the sake of those fortunate enough to have missed that example of literary vandalism, I forbear to go on with the quotation.

Perhaps you are saying that I lack a sense of humor to take the matter so seriously. I wonder if I do. Really I don't think so. I can see the fun in a parody as well as anyone, and laugh at it as heartily, but it seems to me the price is too high. There are so many things just as funny that don't have any sting tied to them. Why not laugh at these and not take away the beauty and solemnity of something worth while, for the sake of a little momentary amusement?

Who will join the man-who-thinks and me in our resolution not to read or listen to any more parodies on beautiful or sacred things?

pound and at another it takes even a dozen.

Many a buyer would like to imitate the woman in the familiar story who asked to be allowed to pick out the black hen eggs which proved to be the largest. But those who believe that it is better to sell eggs by weight forget that it is more convenient to sell them by count for it would be difficult to select eggs that would weigh just a pound. There would always be something under or over a pound but after a time people would probably forget that they were ever sold other wise.

Measuring is not always a just method. A grocer says that in cold weather it is possible to give but three quarts for a gallon of molasses if the measuring is done with a quart measure. It is impossible to drain cold molasses from the measure and leave less than one-quarter. Kerosene or coal oil is also affected to some degree, by extreme cold weather.

It is generally understood that highly spiced food is not healthful but the reason is not always plain. It will be said perhaps that spices are irritating to the digestive organs but there is no statement as to which are the least desirable.

Spices have two offices when added to food; they give flavor and they act as preservatives. This is one reason why fruit cakes keep longer than other kinds and why highly spiced pickles and cutwaps keep well although the cook is thinking only of the flavor when she adds the spices.

At the University of Wisconsin an exhaustive study of condiments seems to prove that some give flavor only and others in addition to improving the taste of the food also act as preservatives. It is discovered that ginger, black pepper and cayenne do not prevent the growth of bacteria. On the contrary cinnamon, cloves and mustard are the best preservatives and of about equal value. Allspice and nutmeg have some power to make things "keep" as the housewife says, but so little of the allspice can be added to food and yet be palatable that the value of this spice, as actually used is very small.

It was once a common way to add ground mustard to older right from the press to prevent fermentation and the recent studies prove that so far no better or more harmless addition could be made. When making cutwaps it is possible to retain good flavor and yet add a greater proportion of cinnamon, cloves and mustard which do much to prevent fermentation and the need of using benzene of soda.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

The time-honored dish of roast pig is served during the cold weather, as pork is best served in the winter months.

Roast Pig.—A pig for this purpose should not be over four weeks old, and should not be kept more than two or three days after it is killed. The skin of a larger pig will not develop that desirable crackle which is one of the charms of the roast.

The pig is usually stuffed with a poultry stuffing, though some like rice and cheese. The fore legs are skewered forward and the hind legs back. The mouth is fastened open with a piece of wood or a cob, and when it is served the traditional apple is used in its place. The ears are protected with buttered paper while it is roasting. The oven should be moderately hot, and basting often improves the roast. The time for roasting is about three hours.

Roast Goose.—A young or green goose is recognized by its pliable yellow feet and its tender windpipes. As it grows older the down on its legs disappears and the feet become darker in color. The skin is so fat and greasy that a warm soda bath and a good scrubbing is necessary to prepare it before it is drawn.

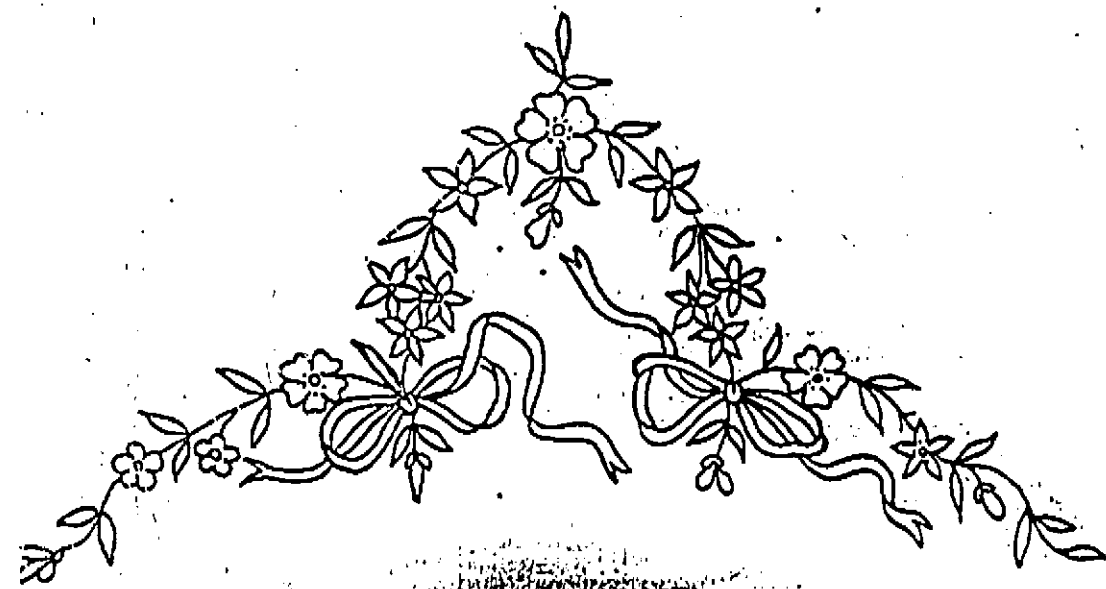

When the goose is drawn, wash quickly in clear water and wipe dry. Roast like a turkey, pouring off the fat from the pan. Serve with giblet sauce, made by adding to a brown gravy the liver, heart and gizzard chopped fine after boiling tender.

Stuffing for Goose.—Use hot mashed potato highly seasoned with salt, pepper and parboiled onions or onion juice. Moisten with one tablespoonful of butter and the yolk of an egg to each cup of potato. Sprinkle a little sage over the potato, if liked.

Steamed Apple Pudding.—Slice tart apples into a deep dish. Cover with a light bread dough into which has been worked a large spoonful of butter. Set in a warm place for an hour, then lift the edge and add one-half pint of boiling water, according to the size of the pudding. Cut an opening in the middle and cover with an inverted basin. Set on the back part of the stove and cook steadily one hour, without lifting the cover. Serve on a hot platter with the apples on top. Use thick cream and maple sirup for sauce.

ANOTHER "COLD STORAGE" WARNING.

Between 60 and 70 persons were recently poisoned at Chicago from eating chicken. It was found on investigation that the chicken had been kept long in cold storage. It has recently been discovered that putrefaction is not altogether stopped by freezing, though the character of it is changed and that animal food that has been in cold storage spoils more readily than that which has not. This suggests the advisability of not using animal food that has been so preserved, especially as it is not necessary to use animal food at all to live well.

DEBUTANTE EVENING FROCK

Debutante frocks are still made of chiffon or net over satin and generally garnished with small artificial flowers. One of the latest models seen among the new importations was of white tulle d'espil over a delicate shade of apple-green satin. Tiny pink roses with natural foliage, trimmed most attractively, and the lace frills on bodice and skirt were also charmingly arranged.

Scotch Alarm Clock.
A tourist in rural Scotland took refuge for the night in the cottage of an old lady. He asked her to wake him up early in the morning, warning her that he was quite deaf. Upon awakening much later than the appointed hour he found that the old lady, with strict regard for the proprieties, had slipped under the door a slip of paper upon which was written: "Sir, it's half past eight."

Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions
By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Exponent of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill
Helpful Cake-Making Hints

Always sift flour and K.C. Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

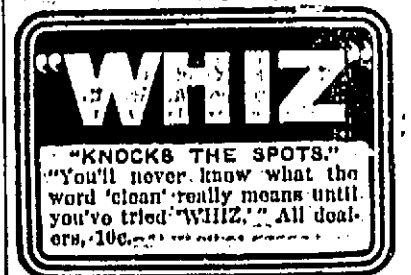

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K.C. Baking Powder. Biscuit Helps

Always sift flour and K.C. Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuits when it comes out. It is easier for K.C. Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board.

With K.C. Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K.C.

Thought for Today

SAFEGUARDING THE HEALTH OF WOMEN.

DURING the past three years favorable decisions have been handed down by the Supreme Court of the United States in the Oregon case, by the Supreme Court of Illinois and Michigan, and by lower courts in Louisiana, Virginia, and Missouri, establishing the right and duty of State Legislatures to safeguard the health of women and girls by limiting their hours of labor.

Last winter public opinion expressed itself emphatically in favor of protecting women from overwork, by the enactment of eight-hour laws in California and Washington, nine-hour laws in Missouri and Utah, ten-hour laws in Wisconsin and Ohio, and by the extension of existing laws in many other states.

The Ohio law provides that women may not be employed more than ten hours in one day, nor fifty-four hours in one week in various places of employment, such as factories, workshops, restaurants, millinery and dress-making establishments, and in the telephone and telegraph service. The law follows the Michigan statute in exempting tanneries from the restriction of hours.

The validity of the Ohio law was argued in October before Judge Dillon of the Court of Common Pleas of Franklin County, who held the law constitutional. It was carried directly to the Supreme Court of the State. In defending the law, the Attorney General of Ohio requested the co-operation of Mr. Brandeis, who successfully defended the Oregon ten-hour law before the Supreme Court of the United States and the Illinois law before the highest court of that State.

In Washington and California the new eight-hour laws are on trial, and in Illinois, because the law was amended to include additional occupations. Since the decision of the Federal Supreme Court in 1908 upholding the validity of woman's labor laws on the ground of their benefit to public health and welfare, no superior court of any state has held such laws unconstitutional.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Buying by Weight Instead of Count.

By Alice E. Whitteker

While most food materials are sold by weight or measure a few are yet sold by count. These include eggs, bananas, oranges and some kinds of fish.

Selling by number appears to be just, when applied to oranges, for those are sorted and priced as made according to size. This is not so true of bananas. Buying eggs by count is more uncertain for at one time they may be so large as to take but nine to weigh

A PRACTICAL BLOUSE.

No pins, no buttons, no hooks on you are. The great popularity of this blouse are needed to adjust this little blouse has grown from its easy adjust with waist. You merely slip the arms through, and from the fact that it rests on the sleeves, cross the fronts, tucks so little bucking for the week-bring ties around to slide, and there—end trip.

The Delights In Baking With CALUMET BAKING POWDER

To fully appreciate the real pleasure of baking, buy a can of Calumet and see how it works. See how light and wonderfully raised they come from the oven.

Then break one of them open and note how thoroughly, evenly and fluffily the dough has risen.

And the final test—the one that counts—bake and taste. This test will prove to you that Calumet is the most dependable baking powder for every purpose.

It will prove its economy over the high-price trust brands and its great superiority over the cheap and big can kinds. For Calumet is highest in quality—and moderate in cost.

REMARKS AS HEARD AT POULTRY SHOWS

SOME OF THINGS WHICH WILL BE HEARD AND WHAT THEY AMOUNT TO.

SHOW ROOM ETIQUETTE

Should be Observed by All Persons Attending the Show—All Persons Should be Gracefully Taken.

Show Room Etiquette. (By P. J. Holselt)

There will be a great many kinds of people at the show this week. There will be the man who thinks that his is the only flock; then there is the man who is ever ready to listen to anything that will help him in this work; also the man who has better birds at home, etc. It will be necessary for everyone to be courteous while in the exhibition hall. Remember that you are not the only one who raises poultry but that there are people all over the world who, can show, and are, showing, fine birds. Do not forget that all the knowledge about chickens is not stored in one man's brain.

Remarks at the Show. Amidst the crowd at the show the various birds at the show this week and they will have many words of praise to offer about the fowls. The prize winning birds will naturally have the most admirers but now and then you will find the man who passes by and who will cry out "I do not see how such a bird as that could possibly win a place." He says that he has many birds at home that are much superior to that one that has the blue ribbon. Then you will hear the woman who tells you around that that bird has dyed feet or they would not be so yellow or that the first prize White Leghorn is not a natural color, but is bleached.

At the recent Chicago show I had a man who brings about all the kinds of poultry that there are in the standard tell me that if he had only wanted to, he could easily bring down his string of fowls and capture nearly all the prizes. He is the one who goes to the small country fairs and, with no competition, is the one who wins the blue ribbon because his birds are hardly good enough to be awarded a place. Such men are of little value to the poultry world and do not think of any ones interest but their own.

Be a True Fancier.

Those whose birds at home are large and heavier, often remark that with those points they would have won. Such talk is simply the result of ignorance, on the part of the one making it. They do not know that every bird according to the quality of every section taken off for each defect found in each section. When one considers that the comb of the Leghorn is valued at 10 points, and that of the Rock at 4, while that of the Houdan is only 4, you must realize that the other sections must have a varying difference in value.

If you happen to be in the same alley where someone is telling the good points of his bird do not try to drown him out but wait until he has had his say and then if after second thought, what you have to offer is worth the while tell it. Treat every lady and gentleman with consideration for we should be guided in the show room the same as if we were at the home of those who are about us.

Be a true fancier and remember the one who never can see any good in the birds shown another is bound to lose out in the long run. Show room etiquette is something that may never have entered your mind but it should be just the same. Those things which I have mentioned above should be looked into. Many of them show poor etiquette. Our show room should be as free from that which is not for the best interest of all as is our home.

If you are a fancier and judge do it gracefully. Do not blame the judge but realize that he has made a study of the work and that he has done the best he knows how. Do not find fault with the stock that another man has in the show and try to make out that he is in league with the show officials and the judge.

Watch your birds while they are in the show room for they will be under trying conditions, at best. It is possible to give your fowls a little green food while they are in the exhibition. It is a good idea to see that he shows any sign of becoming droopy. If the birds are properly dusted at home before they are taken to the show room the flies will not bother them.

All the birds that can reasonably be entered will be entered by noon today and they must be in the show room by noon Tuesday.

SAYS QUININE WILL NOT BREAK A COLD

How to cure the most severe cold and all gripe misery in just a few hours.

You will distinctly feel your cold breaking and all the gripe symptoms leaving after taking the very first dose.

It is a positive fact that Pope's Cold Compound, taken every two hours, will end the Gripe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or lungs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or gripe.

Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end gripe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any drugist in the world can supply.

noon Tuesday. This is one of the rules of the association and as they will abide by every rule they have printed, be sure that you comply with them. Just imagine what a hard time they would have if every person who is to bring birds was to ask some favor. The show would not begin until the end of the week and the judging would never be finished. As the public is anxious to see the awards up early they will probably be up by Tuesday. This will give the breeders plenty of time to gain benefits, from the advertising of the showings.

TO TAKE PICTURES OF COUNTY SCHOOLS

Supt. O. D. Antlad and Prin. Lowth Will Secure Photographs of Buildings and Grounds—Other Training School News.

Supt. Antlad and Principal Lowth are planning to take pictures of school buildings and grounds throughout the county during the summer. These pictures will be used in lantern slides, and also for cuts to be published in bulletins of the county papers.

Miss Haviland assisted in the teaching on Friday having charge of the American Literature class.

Principal Lowth addressed the grade teachers and several girls of the junior and senior classes in Edgerton Friday afternoon. The subject was "The Training School."

The rural school problem comprises many elements, but two recognized methods of solution are consolidation of the small schools, and then having these consolidated schools taught by trained teachers—teachers trained in county training schools.

Miss Lene Stands of Madison, suffered a nervous chill in our school on Thursday morning, and was obliged to be taken to her boarding place. We are glad to say that Miss Stands is now much improved.

During the next quarter the principal will have a class in general method using White's "Art of Teaching," and Miss Jacobson will have a class in special method using the "Manual" for a text.

It was impossible for Miss Wilder to be in school on Wednesday on account of the cold weather, as she comes on the train from Evanville.

Our janitor has kept us very comfortable during this extreme cold weather.

We have received three mail sacks of valuable material from the U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Miss Jacobson has been quite successful in the mouse-catching enterprise.

Miss Jacobson is chairman of the Primary section of the Rock county association, and is now busy getting up a good program.

Our young ladies will sing at the Rock county meeting on Saturday, Feb. 17th.

Plans are maturing for the coming year of the training school. An attendance of over forty students is fully expected. We shall send out twelve or thirteen young women to teach in various parts of Rock County next fall and the faculty of the school will keep in close touch with these young teachers to help them to be successful and to make their work successful and valuable.

CITY OF APPLETON UNDER COMMISSION

JUDGE THOMAS H. RYAN IN LETTER TO W. H. DOUGHERTY ENDORSES COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

PLAN IS SUCCESSFUL

Ways in Which City is Benefitted Under New Rule Are Described—Firming of Responsibility Important.

In response to a letter from Attorney Wm. H. Dougherty of this city regarding his views on the commission form of city government, Judge Thomas H. Ryan of the Outagamie county municipal court at Appleton, gives his endorsement to the plan and outlines some of the benefits which it has worked during the brief time in which it has been in force in the northern Wisconsin city. Judge Ryan takes a very sane and impartial attitude toward the system and finds that it has been a success. His letter is given as follows:

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 12, 1912. My Dear Dougherty:

"You asked me for my views as to the advisability of your city's adopting the commission form of government. Appleton has been operating under the commission form since April 18, 1911. Inasmuch as the old council left a considerable deficit in the treasury and had entered into contracts for street and other improvements which the commission was obliged to finance, no decrease in the tax levy was possible for this year. However, a very noticeable improvement in the management of our city's affairs is to be seen on all sides. Full value has been received by the city for every dollar expended, which, to put it mildly, was far from being true under the old plan, although our city under the old plan was as well governed as any city in the state operating under that system.

City as a Whole. "All improvements made or contemplated have been considered from the viewpoint of the city as a whole rather than from the viewpoint of the individual wards as heretofore. No. 12 inch sewer in the outskirts of the city has been connected to a 9 inch main because of the combination of adjoiners from the various wards. The principle, 'If I'll vote for what your ward wants' is no longer the guiding rule of conduct in our city. All city departments have been made more efficient, municipal property has been kept in repair, and in a word, the city's affairs have been handled in a business like manner.

"Now, no petition is necessary in order to consider or bring about a desired improvement change. The commissioners are accessible at all times and are always ready to act when the city's interests require it. Red tape and politics have no place. It happened that the three men elected commissioners are all Democrats, but the majority of their appointees happen to be Republicans, such as city clerk, city treasurer, and two of the assessors.

Officers Reduced. "One of the first acts of the new commission was to cut off a lot of officers by taking over their duties. Some of the officers dispensed with are poor commissioners, the sealers of weights, the weed commissioner and the street commissioner, thus saving to the city the salaries of these officers as well as improving upon the work theretofore done in those departments. This year a nominal assessor will be elected, but the assessor will be done by the commissioners.

"City the office of street commissioner was abolished, the city was divided into four divisions, and a foreman, who himself works with his men, placed in charge of each division. Great improvement followed. Our streets and alleys were never in better condition than they are today. In other words, responsibility has been fixed and politics have been eliminated.

Responsibility Fixed. "The commissioners have made some mistakes and undoubtedly will make more; but the tax payer or citizen now knows who is responsible for what is being done and whom to applaud or criticize. The fixing of responsibility is the important thing. To a substantial and honest man, it means a stimulus to better and higher endeavor. To an incompetent and dishonest man it is the award of a license that prevents his injuring, plundering and prostituting society.

Very truly yours, THOMAS H. RYAN.

Examine Your Own Prejudice. Every one is forward to complain of the prejudices that mislead other men or parties, as if he were free, and had none of his own. This being objected on all sides, it is agreed that it is a fault and a hindrance to knowledge. What now is the cure? No other but this, that every man should let alone his own prejudices and examine his great cause of ignorance and error out of the world is for every one impartially to examine himself.—Locke

IN MATCHTOWN

Fortunately no Faith Was Required, Had No Faith Had None.

"I had no faith whatever, but on the advice of a hale, hearty old gentleman who spoke from experience, I began to use Grape-Nuts about 2 years ago," writes an Ohio woman, who says she is 40, is known to be fair, and admits that she is growing plump on the new diet.

"I shall not try to tell you how I suffered for years from a deranged stomach that rejected almost all sorts of food, and digested what little was forced upon it only at the cost of great distress and pain."

"I was troubled by many different doctors and they gave me many different medicines, and I even spent several years in exile from my home, thinking chance of some might do me good. You may judge of the gravity of my condition when I tell you I was sometimes compelled to use morphine for weeks at a time."

"For two years I have eaten Grape-Nuts at least twice a day and I can now say that I have perfect health. I have taken no medicine in that time—Grape-Nuts has done it all. I can eat absolutely anything I wish, without stomach distress."

AUTHOR TURNS ADVERTISER.

One of the "40 immortals," Jean Richepin, has just found a new outlet for his literary effort. For years he has devoted his life to poetry and fiction, but his greatest success came when he wrote a description of Alphonse Daudet's jewelry, preparatory to their being sold at auction. His efforts were so successful in the advertising field that they brought more than $1,000,000, and Richepin holds the distinction of having prepared the advertising copy for one of the largest single sales on record.

read what he was fighting to riden. He did not dare lay his lips on that ribbon then, but that night he would return to it. When they had gone a little distance they both looked back, and the morning breeze set the bit of blue waving them a farewell.

She reached him her hand, and, like two children, they broke into a run as they came nearer the gang. They left the swamp by the west road and followed the trail until they found the men. To the angel it seemed complete chaos.

In the shallowest spot on the west side of the line, close to the swamp and very close to Freckles' room, they were cutting down bushes and clearing out space for a tent for the men's sleeping quarters, another for a dining hall and a board shack for the cook. The teamsters were unloading the horses, and each man was doing his part toward the construction of the new Lumber-lot quarters.

CHAPTER XIX.

FRECKLES OFFERS HIS LIFE.

THE gang had been carefully sifted, and McLean now felt that there was not a man in it that was not trustworthy.

They had all heard of the angel's plucky ride for Freckles' relief, and several of them had been in the rescue party. When she was ensconced on the wagon load of tending she sat on a roll of canvas like a queen on her throne. There was not a man of the gang that would not have fought for her.

As they raced toward the wagon—"Let me tell about the tree, please," she begged Freckles.

"Why, sure," said Freckles. "He would probably have said the same if she had proposed to cut off his head. When McLean rode up he found her sitting on the wagon, flushed and glowing."

"Everybody listen!" cried the angel. "I have something to say. Freckles has been guarding here over a year now, and he presents the Lumber-lot to you, with every tree in it saved, and for good measure he has just this morning located the rarest one of all—the one around him from the east line that Wesmer spoke of that first day, nearest the one you took out at first. All together! Everybody! Hurrah for Freckles!"

With flushing cheeks and gleaming eyes she led in three cheers and a tiger. Freckles slipped back into the swamp and held himself tight for fear he might burst wide open with pride and with his love for her.

The angel subsided on the canvas and explained to McLean about the maple. He took Freckles and set out to relocate and examine the tree. The angel was interested in the making of the camp and preferred to remain with the men. With her sharp eyes she was watching every detail of construction, but when it came to the stretching of the dining hall canvas

"EVERYBODY LISTEN!" CRIED THE ANGEL. She proceeded to take command. The men were driving the rope pins when the angel rose on the wagon and, leaning forward, spoke to Duncan, who was directing the work.

"I believe if you would swing that around a few feet farther you would find it better," Mr. Duncan said. "That way will let the hot sun in at noon, and the sides will cut off the best breeze." "That's a fact," said Duncan, studying the condition.

So by shifting the pins a little they obtained comfort, for which they blessed the angel every day.

When Freckles joined in the work about the camp he caught glimpses of her enthroned on a soapbox clearing beans. She called to him that they were invited to stay for dinner and that they had accepted the invitation. She was having the time of her life when McLean came back, jubilant from his trip to the tree. How jubilant he only told the angel, for he had been obliged to lose faith in some trusted men of late and had learned discretion by what he suffered. He planned to begin clearing out a road to the tree that same afternoon and to set two guards every night, for it promised to be a rare treasure.

"I am coming to see it felled," cried the angel.

"Tell me, angel," the boss said jestingly. "I think I have a right to know. Who really did locate that tree?"

"Freckles," she answered promptly and emphatically.

The boss smiled significantly at Freckles, who had just come up, for they had planned that they would instruct the company to reserve enough of the veneer from that very tree to make the most beautiful dressing table they could design for the angel's share of the discovery.

"What will you have for yours?" asked McLean of Freckles.

"If it's all the same to you, I'll be taking mine out in music lessons—begging your pardon—voice culture," said Freckles with a grimace.

The angel gave McLean the head of the table. She took the foot, with Freckles on her right, and the lumber gang, washed, brushed and straightened until they felt unfamiliar with themselves and each other, filled the sides.

It was several days before they completed a road to the noble, big tree and were ready to fell it. When the saw was well in Freckles began watching down the road, where it met the trail leading from Little Chicken's tree. He had gone to the tree ahead of the gang and taken down the blue ribbon. Carefully folded, it now lay over his heart. He was promising himself a good deal of comfort with that ribbon when he should go to the city next month to begin his studies and dream the summer over again. It would help to make things tangible. When he was dressed as other men and about his work he knew where he meant to home that precious bit of blue. It should be his good luck token, and he would wear it always to keep bright in memory the day on which the angel had called him her knight.

How he would study, and, oh, how he would sing! If he could fulfill McLean's expectations, and make the angel proud of him! If he could only be a real knight!

He could not understand why the angel had failed to come. She had wanted to see their tree felled. She would be too late if she did not arrive soon. The men were sending ringing blows into the felling side of the tree when the boss rode up.

His first word was to inquire for the angel. When Freckles said she had not yet come McLean gave orders to stop work on the tree until she arrived. As the men stepped back a stiff morning breeze caught the top that towered high above his fellows. There was an ominous grinding at the base, a shiver of the mighty trunk, and directly in line of its fall the bushes swung apart and the laughing face of the angel looked in on them.

A groan of horror burst from the dry throats of the men, and, reading the agony in their faces, she stopped short, glanced up and understood.

"South!" shouted McLean. "Run south!"

The poor child was helpless. It was patent that she did not know which way south was. There was another slow shiver of the tree. The rest of the gang stood as if rooted, but Freckles sprang past the trunk and went leaping in great bounds. He caught up the angel and dashed through the thicket for safety. The swaying trunk was half over when, just for an instant, a nearby tree stayed its fall. They saw Freckles' foot catch, and with the angel he plunged headlong.

A cry broke from the men, and McLean covered his face. Instantly Freckles was up, with the angel in his arms plunging on again. The outer limbs were on them when they saw Freckles hurl the angel's face down, in the muck, as far from him as he could send her. Springing after, in an attempt to cover her body with his own, he whirled to see if they were still in danger, and with outstretched arms thrust himself for the shock. The branches shut them from sight, and the awful crash rocked the earth.

McLean and Duncan ran with axes and saws. The rest of the gang followed, and they worked like madmen. It seemed an age before they caught a glimpse of the angel's blue dress, and it renewed their vigor. Duncan fell on his knees beside her and tore the muck from underneath her with his hands. In a few seconds he dragged her out, choking and stunned.

Freckles lay a little farther under the tree, a big limb pinning him down. Duncan began mining beneath him, but Freckles stopped him.

"You can't be moving me," he said. "You must cut off the limb and lift it. I know."

Two men ran for the big saw. A number of them held hold of the limb and bore up. In a little time it was off, and Freckles lay free.

The men bent over him to lift him, but he motioned them away.

"Don't be touching me until I rest a bit," he pleaded.

Then he twisted his head until he saw the angel, who was digging muck from her eyes and wiping it off her face on the skirt of her dress.

"Try to get up," he begged.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

PETTY CRIMES PUNISHABLE BY DEATH.

By A. W. MACY.

In 1806 an English writer published a list of fifty-six crimes that were punishable by death in that country. A large percentage of them were what are now considered minor offenses; yet upon conviction of the offenders the judges were obliged to pass sentence of death. At one session of the Old Bailey court, in London, the term ending September 4, 1801, the following convictions were made: Two men for entering a dwelling house in the daytime and stealing a cotton counterpane; one man for stealing a linen cloth; two men for burglary; one man for stealing a pair of stockings; another for stealing six silver spoons; another for returning from transportation; another for stealing a horse; another for stealing a blue coat; two men for stealing four teaspoons and a gold snuff box; one man for stealing a lamb, and another for stealing two lambs. It is not recorded that all these were hanged, but some of them undoubtedly were. Probably the most extraordinary case on record is that of an English boy who was sentenced to death for polishing a sixpence and trying to pass it for a shilling.

Use of Powders in History.

The primary use of powders was for the adornment of the hair, eyes, and face. The use of blue, red and green being affected by the Romans in place of the gold dust with which Jews and Romans were wont to sprinkle their locks. Later wheat flour and rice powder were adopted, both for hair and face, and these were not introduced into England until later Plantagenet days, when a very decided change in dress made itself apparent.

Proof of a Weak Mind.

"In matters of great concern, and which must be done, there is no surer argument of a weak mind than irresolution; to be undetermined where the case is so plain and the necessity so urgent."—Tillotson.

Useful Alloy of Aluminum.

Magnallium, an alloy of aluminum with a small proportion of magnesium, is now manufactured in quantity. The extreme lightness of magnallium, with its high thermal conductivity, is said to render it well adapted for aeroplane engine cylinders. On account of the toughness and strength of the metal, it is being used, not only for cylinders, but also for crank cases, water pumps, intake manifolds and the various other things connected with the manufacture of an engine which could admit of the use of castings of any kind. The use of this metal for cylinders makes a considerable reduction in the weight of the average aeroplane engine.

A Beggar's Luggage.

When Bridget Flanagan, who described herself as "a poor lone Irish widow woman," was arrested for begging at Wells she had the following articles distributed about her person: Tea, sugar, fresh cut beefsteak, piece of bacon, two bladders, bread and cheese, four buns, bag of biscuits, cooked fagot, two apples, onions, two clay pipes, tobacco, cigarettes and snuff.—London Evening Standard.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel.
